========== KEYMACROs are a way to embed a key into a Mono.Addins application. These keys are usable by Mono.Addins objects. A mono.addins application can define additional keys by importing key macro definitions from other key macros. A KEYMACRO has the following general structure: KeyMacro = {Key-Macro: } The key definition is expected to be a dictionary where the is defined by a : structure. KEYMACROs are defined by Mono.Addins as follows: KeyMacro: : When a KEYMACRO is imported from another KEYMACRO, the in the target KEYMACRO is replaced with the in the importing KEYMACRO. The definition of a can be as simple as a string, and may contain any character except for: ',' and '='. can be either a string (simple key name), or a string or symbol (key names which refer to objects). MONO.ADDINS Objects which will be usable by KEYMACROS: ========== MONO.ADDINS objects which are usable by KEYMACROS have the following general structure: MONO.ADDINS (KeyMacro) = { : : : ... } The and are of the same type as other MONO.ADDINS objects.
