current screensaver, but instead adds more effect to it by 'strobing' lights on the keyboard when your normal screensaver runs. Features: Each key of your keyboard or the whole keyboard is strobed on and off as the application runs. Keystrobe is random and each time the application runs the strobe of your keyboard is different. Keystrobe is can be modified. The initial numbers of the strobe for Num Lock and Scroll Lock, and the following numbers for Caps Lock. The initial numbers for Num Lock and Scroll Lock can be reprogrammed with a right click. The initial numbers for Num Lock and Scroll Lock can be reprogrammed with a right click for a new cycle. The output of the program is compatible with screensavers from SCRUNGLXP. NOTE: The application requires a Windows 2000/NT, Windows 98SE/ME or Windows 95/98/ME/NT/2000 installation. Update procedure: When a new version of the screen saver is released, a new version of the application can be downloaded. To update, download and install the new application. Already installed application: If the application is already installed, the new version will be used without reinstallation. After downloading: Click on the.exe file to install it. It takes a moment to load the screen saver; if it doesn't appear, install it and restart your computer. This screen saver can be used with all screensavers from SCRUNGLXP. A light pointer is displayed on the right side of the window. The window is activated and accepted with a right click on the light pointer. The light pointer is the output of the light keys strobe. You can select a color for this light pointer and can reprogram it. a69d392a70

'Automatic Light Strobe' is a small screensaver add-on that flashes your keyboard keys when your normal screensaver runs. Halting is a screensaver (also called "screen saver") for Windows to notify you about an event, such as an incoming mail message, a termination of a programme, or if you are idle for a long time. Programs that are in "halting" state will be resumed when you click the mouse in the screen. For example, Microsoft Outlook will inform you about the number of unread messages. Other common halting programs are Java, Qt, database clients and XMMS. Strobe Light is a very nice screensaver, which can put the connected USB key in stoke with its very cute LED flash. The screensaver starts automatically when you boot Windows. You can select the keyboard layout and set the flashing speed. You can also select the number of the LEDs on the keyboard to be flashed. The LED can be clicked for a message or just tap for an unknown reason. If you haven't installed a USB key, then you need to download the Strobe Light seperatly.
