program.cpp -Lpath/to/lib CAD/CAM techniques in dental practice. A commonly used clinical method for preparing a tooth for restorative therapy is to use a removable partial denture framework. If this framework is to be fabricated in the laboratory, various computer-aided design/computer-aided manufacturing (CAD/CAM) techniques may be used to aid in planning the framework. A removable partial denture framework may be fabricated from a stone cast, one that is prepared by any number of classic or new techniques. This framework may be semiadjustable, adjustable, or an in situ denture. This article reviews the most recently developed techniques and instruments for designing a stone cast removable partial denture framework and the materials that may be used for this purpose. It is anticipated that increased utilization of CAD/CAM techniques will continue to increase the popularity of stone cast removable partial denture systems.
