Strzok was one of the many FBI officials who were disaffected with President Donald Trump's election, and Strzok, Mueller, and the FBI, in general, have been accused of bias against Trump and in favor of Hillary Clinton. However, it is also reported that Strzok was also fired from his job as a Special Agent in charge of the FBI's human resources division, also in December 2016, shortly after the release of a controversial text message exchange between Strzok and FBI lawyer Lisa Page. In the text message exchange, Strzok attacked then-candidate Donald Trump as a "racist," and discussed a "well sourced (?) conclusion" that Trump would win the presidency. During an appearance on Laura Ingraham's show this morning, Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX) said, "I think it is pretty troubling that you have a man like Peter Strzok who looks at Donald Trump and says, 'He's a racist.'" Cruz then questioned if Strzok was "in any way responsible" for the FBI's eventual investigation into the Trump campaign. Cruz said, "You have an FBI official who looks at Donald Trump and says he's a racist and he's a bigot and he is biased against minorities, of course, I'm just gonna flag that, because he's an FBI official."The number of Mylan's generic equivalent EpiPen injections it has sold through Aug. 1 is now at 100 million, company executives said on Wednesday, meaning the company has now delivered about 80 percent of its goal to meet the low-cost demand spurred by President Donald Trump's move to end an import tax on Ep 0cc13bf012
