◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆ PROLOGUE A bunch of kids are screaming and fighting over a Japanese baseball card. The competitors are real children who play in the local baseball league every year. How is that even possible? "KATAKURA HIDEYO!!" "INNOOOO!" Loud banging. "BUT WHY!" "UWAAAAAAAAAHHHHHH!" I was planning to watch the competition for fun, but my followers looked quite downcast. I turned on the TV, and the KATAKURA NO HIDEYO program was on. "What's going on!?" "Everybody is coming over!" "We can't do anything!" "What's wrong with the player!?" Who could tell me? The TV was strange. I disconnected the cable. "Nooooooo!" "Everyone is there!?" I'm getting some weird signals on the screen. They're being broadcast from a place I don't recognize, but I can't investigate in person because the viewers were trying to tear me apart. There are people down there! I got out of my base immediately. My staff's power was reduced to half, but it was faster than walking. I'll be fine. This building is an air-conditioned cave. I'll take a short shower and leave this place in better shape than it was before. I went to the bathroom after locking the gate. There were two people waiting there. "Get away from me!" The Weight Stabilized Computer Platform (WSCP) is a computer platform that employs a stabilizing mechanism that allows the platform to be employed in any orientation. WSCP allows the use of any existing video and/or imaging component of any size in the combined computer system, regardless of orientation. The WSCP stabilizing mechanism is integrated with the computer platform and employs a dynamic asymmetric suspension mechanism. The dynamic asymmetric suspension mechanism can stabilize the computer platform regardless of its orientation by utilizing stabilizing actuators. The stabilizing actuators are linear and rely on the dynamic asymmetric suspension mechanism, which in turn relies on the mass of the computer platform and the stabilizing actuators, to provide stabilization. The computer platform is not required to have any electronic controller or feedback system.Double jeopardy for HIV-infected drug users: criminal records and HIV. Recent declines in HIV drug use have been accompanied by increases in criminal records among people who use illicit drugs. This paper explores the relationship between criminal records and HIV infection among a sample of drug users in a low-income African-American community. Data are from a cross-sectional survey of 1118 drug users in methadone treatment, half of whom self-reported HIV positive, and half negative. Logistic regression was used to examine the relationship between criminal records and HIV infection. The relationship between criminal records and HIV infection was strongest for those who used crack (adjusted OR = 2.7) or inject drugs (adjusted OR = 2.2) (95% CI: 1.1-4.5 and 1.4-3.8, respectively). Those with criminal records were more likely to be HIV-infected if they were male (adjusted OR = 1.5) or African-American (adjusted OR = 1.8) or were HIV-infected (adjusted OR = 2.7). Self-reported HIV infection did not increase the likelihood of criminal records among male drug users. These data are consistent with the hypothesis that HIV infection and criminal records are associated through a common set of predisposing factors.Johannes Verstappen Johannes Verstappen (21 July 1879 – 17 March 1959) was a Dutch politician and warden for the Amsterdamsche Bank.
