Features Key:

A Poke Community.
Meet new friends and travel together.
A massive world full of exciting sidescrolling action.
A new character strengthening system that allows you to develop skills according to your playstyle.

Addictiveness:

Ranked: The Sticker SMASH Battles system. Ranked: Trading's VBA-based item exchange. Ranked: Due to the increase in the amount of data stored for battles, the following features are included:

- Display enemies' items to help you avoid damage in PvP battles.
- Show the death of recently-used characters in other players' worlds.
- Show/hide the death of recently-used characters in your own world.

Probably the most sought after feature in the world of online esports. Be the best! Show your skills and truly be the biggest player I'm so glad I got this! I expected the purchases to be very cheap, but even after getting over the initial purchase lag it didn't budge. For the first two days there were no giveaways, no fixes for bugs, so I was extremely hesitant to purchase, but it was free the entire time. Yet again, there were no problems with the system as I was able to unlock every character pretty much immediately. It was awesome! I'd have to say everything was on time or ahead of it, there were no delays in transactions for 60 days on release date, no server issues, and I'd say I experienced around a week of stable performance and actually had undocking to my gamehub within 2-3 mins upon starting play for some random matches, between the 1st AND 2nd day I had like 20-40,000 isk on servers putting me almost Update: The License Status has now been updated, you can now download and run the game on your device. Enjoy.Q: jQuery.click() not working when button was generated by a JavaScript function I'm struggling with the following problem: I have a form with an input textarea and a button with class "add_item". This function is generating dynamically a new button with "add_item" class. Clicking with the first button works, but clicking with the generated one doesn't. $(document).ready(function() { $('#element').append(''); $('#add_item').click(function() { alert('add item clicked'); }); }); I don't get any alert when clicking. A: you need a click handler for the new button, $(document).ready(function () { $('#element').append(''); $('#add_item').click(function () { alert('add item clicked'); }); $('#add_item:last').click(); }); or use jQuery.on() instead, $(document).ready(function () { $('#element').append('');
