You got a special someone in your life, or maybe you're just the world's greatest adventurer? Well, in this nail-biting adventure you've got to open the doors! The doors to your prison, that is. You'd better open them because you'll be doing some real time in prison if you don't. You see, the world has been taken over by a time-travelling robot and those doors are holding a giant monster in place. And now it's time to open the doors before it is too late! Don't open the doors! is an original game by Luchwen Laben in which you have to open the doors to your prison, as quickly as possible. The doors are guarded by the most unlikely of all guards, the children from the local kindergarten. However, this isn't the wisest guardian you can expect. After all, a hero has to be brave, patient and compassionate and he'll need your help to open the doors and bring the children home before it's too late.

White light-emitting carbon dots as nanocarriers for targeted drug delivery to treat colon cancer. Here, we proposed a white light-emitting carbon dots (WLCDs) nanocarriers for targeted drug delivery to treat colon cancer. The application of fluorescent carbon dots (Cdots) to human colon cancer cells under different experimental conditions was investigated by using confocal laser scanning microscopy and flow cytometry. The synthesized WLCDs showed a high level of biocompatibility, which significantly increased in time. Based on the excellent photostability of WLCDs, WLCDs-DOX (doxorubicin) nanocomplexes were applied to colon cancer cells and excellent cell toxicity was observed for colon cancer. Moreover, the cytotoxicity effect of WLCDs-DOX was higher than that of free DOX or NIR-treated group, which suggested that the photothermal therapy can make a synergistic effect with the chemotherapy of DOX. Therefore, WLCDs are promising multifunctional nanocarriers as a platform for targeted drug delivery.

Explore the inside of Dr. Rischboter's mind as you battle through his training scenarios, now upgraded to include special modifiers that can mix the deadly assignments together to create your very own, custom, CREO Industries zombie-fighting challenge! Upgraded CREO labs are hidden throughout the map and they'll test you to the limit, as well as test your combat skills! Play the base game The Surge, and enter the CREO Labs to unlock the insane mutation "E3 Labs" that has never been seen before! : The fate of humanity hangs in the balance. The world as we know it has come undone, and who can say who might step up to the front and stop this all-consuming army of the undead? CREO Industries and their deadly Research and Development labs get top priority! We have mutated the rules of warfare, weapons, and even the human body itself! We believe we have found a way to end this all-consuming epidemic forever! - Get CREO-ized to a new plane of existence - Obtain CREO's QA lab and experience R&D at it's finest - Dive into CREO's labs, discover each of them, and unlock them - Defeat 20 Challengers - each one with their own special BREAK Point (BPs) - Loot 16 free full-face CREO Industries' headsets - Play the base game (The Surge) to enter the madness - Explore 4 new blueprints - Crawlers, Creeps, Mutants, and more - Combine up to 4 modifiers to create a new combination - Weapons are a new user-modifiable weapon system - They're high-powered, but there is a limit on how many can be equipped at any one time - We've added BROKEN PUNK as an in-game mod, it's a new player-modified mechanic that will severely reduce the effectiveness of the player's abilities - Implant Types have also been added, a new gameplay mechanic that gives some additional utilities, such as DRONES - The game will actually make you go through training stages as you play, this allows you to learn what you need to survive and hunt down other Challengers as you progress - Four different BROKEN PUNK Stages are available, and you will need a BROKEN PUNK

Suit to survive them all! - From the choice of Seed, the abilities of the player can be tweaked to bring out their c9d1549cdd

Q: Probability of Rounding the Number to a Certain Number of Significant Figures I am solving a problem about rounding a number to a certain number of significant figures. The problem says: Let's say we're rounding a number to two significant figures. Example: (22.4 rounded to 2 significant figures) 1/3 of the time, the rounding will round the number up. 1/3 of the time the number will be rounded to 2 significant figures. 1/6 of the time the number will be rounded down. 1/3 of the time the number will be rounded down. The probability of getting a 2 on a given roll is 1/12. I think I understand the problem. I understand that the number is equally likely to round up or down, but I don't understand how to figure out the probability of the number being rounded to a certain significant figure.

A: Let X be the number rounded to 2 significant figures, i.e. $X \in \{22, 22.1, 22.01, 22.001\}$. We want to find the probability distribution of X . Let Y be the random number generated. Then $X = \lfloor Y \rfloor$ and $X+1$ are independent. So we can condition on X being k significant figures, and get the same result as the distribution of $X+1$: $\Pr[X=k] = \Pr[X=k]$

What's new:

The Deed of Deception, which won the 1995 National Book Critics Circle Award for fiction, is the mesmerizing chronicle of a Jewish businessman who leaves his comfortable life in New York City to take over a now bankrupt Texas resort that has become a tourist trap - and home to a religious cult that worships him. Riding the Crossfire Eli Robeson, a public defender, witnesses a brutal murder and is given a second chance at life. In a world colliding in ways beyond his imagination, he must battle not only a killer but a treacherous police force, with devastating consequences. Midnight in Dubai: The Forgotten Stories of the Dubai Mall Bombing On August 27, 2002, 10 young terror suspects - mostly American and British citizens and recent converts to Islam - boarded a bus bound for Dubai. Their intended destination was the upscale, 5-star Burj Dubai mall. By 9:30 p.m. the group had accomplished their mission, detonating explosives that blew out the windows and tossed tourists 160 feet in the air. The Enemy List: The True Story of the Most Notorious Spies Ever Run by the CIA Perfect for fans of the spy thriller genre, The Enemy List digs into the lives of infamous spies through information smuggled out of the CIA's National Clandestine Service. Former secrets agent Daniele Ganser focuses on this expertly mapped team of outcasts, using their interviews and declassified CIA source files to tell a frighteningly true tale of the assassins, kidnappers, spies, and zealots who turned the CIA into America's Goliath. Fortitude: The True Story of the Secret Soldiers Who Fought Hitler in Occupied France In the blood-soaked summer of 1940, General George S. Patton's U.S. Third Army was racing east. Paris was surrounded. Food ran short. Every day, more Americans were killed by Nazi air raids. Hungry families begged for help from the first men to run into battle. They went where no one else dared - at great risk to themselves - to dug through rubble, extract food from the ruins, and snatch babies to give them milk. The Abductors: A Novel David Vann, now in his 40s and still searching for his vanished sister, takes a job in New Orleans as a private investigator at the request of a very wealthy businesswoman who would rather die than let others know the truth about her family. Many mistakes have already
