What's new in Seena VR (Beta):

This is an article about a game. Seena VR is a community developed open world virtual reality adventure. Set in the fictional ultra-high-tech city of Seena (Siena being the initial capital of Italy), the game also takes place in the real town of Siena. In the player's story, the player (called the hunter) has been warned to stay out of the dark shadows of the Black Mansion, and to never let down their guard. The player must then help their "cosmonaut" co-star Johnathan Theobald escape the Black Tower and the personification of the spirit of death. The player must also go through the game's three hacking minigames (gathering up treasure and info files from various computer terminals on a scavenger hunt) to collect four clues to find the secret exit. You must also bring full trust into your nation's police force, as they may or may not actually exist. The game contains several optional minigames such as a burglary attempt, a ride in a world-class antique car, a fight in a virtual fight arena, and go-kart racing (with optional vehicle turning). I decided to work with a real-life historical figure as the basis for the cosmonaut's appearance and clothing by analyzing his resemblance to famous Sieneese potters, sculptors and painters. Contents Story Siena is a futuristic ultra-high-tech city whose citizens enjoy happy and very safe lives.

There is however one major problem: nobody can figure out what lies in the dark black shadows of the Black Tower. This is unlike the Tower of Babel, where everybody can finally understand the fact of God's existence. Only one man knows the answer: Johnathan Theobald, co-star of this game. He was warned multiple times to not go into the shadows of the tower, but he did anyway. A red light has started to show in several locations around the town, and the police is out in force. Now Johnathan and the hunter are going to make things right. One thing is certain: if they get caught, they will never see their friends or family again. The main storyline (left) The Dark man of the Black Tower appears. Note the brown dress, similar to the red dress seen on a number of real-life Sienese men, and the red hair (not quite as curly as the hunter's). (right
