Discovery is a web widget which allows you to find new blogs, newsgroups and social networks. With it you can get blogs, newsgroups and social networks using any of the 4 methods: • Search • News Aggregator • Yahoo Pipes • RSS Feeds Discovery can be used to replace a web portal. It provides a list of RSS feeds in one browser. It uses PyNTP to search the online content as well as Google. Yahoo Pipes is used to generate search feeds. Yahoo Pipes will also give the user insights into which web page has generated the feed. Discovery includes features such as: • Search within a feed • Search within the feed • Search within the comments • Sorting • Feeder • Removal of all content • Automatic re-indexing • System integration • Handling of dynamically added content • Calendars • Clickable URLs • Feed Search • Search Box • Google Search • Google Pipes The search box allows you to simply type in a search term and get a results from the various blogs or newsgroups. All search results are in RSS format, which makes searching easier than manually entering the URL. News Aggregator (application/rss+xml) This widget allows you to search for RSS feeds newsgroup and blog aggregators. News Aggregators (NA) aggregate blog and newsgroups containing the same information. It's use is very similar to news aggregators. Enter your URL, choose a category or two to include and click search, now you can browse and find the latest news, blogs and rumors. The widget is good to use as it provides a clickable URL so you can go right to the source. When you want to visit a webpage that is no longer available, you can easily set a favorite site in the widget's URL Bookmarks. Selecting "Google Pipes" you will be shown a list of all feeds from the selected search terms. Once b7e8fdf5c8
