Your link to larger download: I use LinkChaser to monitor my download progress. As for your original question about which version to use, I would tend to stay with the latest release as it seems there were some issues with the earlier releases. However, if there are no issues and you still encounter problems, then it may be best to start with the Vista compatibility version. Let us know if there are any problems, and do let us know how you get on :) In 2006 a new twist was added to the ever changing landscape of broadband. The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) passed the Digital Television Transition and Health Protection Act of 2006 (DTV Act) and required that broadcast TV stations must cease to operate their analog signals on February 17, 2009 and transition to digital service. In conjunction with the DTV Act, Congress passed the "Tunable White Space (TWS) Policy." The TWS Policy was a scheme for the FCC to create a
