From Picross comes a fascinating new puzzle game with the classical "Sudoku" puzzle structure, now with the flavor of dessert! Picross Bonbon Nonogram is a lovely game you can play to unwind. It's short, but definitely not easy. As you progress through the game, you will be required to complete picture puzzles with challenging calculations, using the various types of pictures shown throughout the game, all while listening to the theme song. First of all, let's go over the main concepts of the game. The game is easy to understand and has no tricky puzzles or hidden factors. The game is made up of 16 puzzles. Most will take you around 10-20 minutes to solve. The differences between regular and "bonbon" puzzles. "Regular" puzzles include pictures with a number of sweets that can be fit together to make a picture. "Bonbon" puzzles contain candies that cannot be fit together as a whole, but rather in pieces, like puzzle pieces. - Each puzzle has at least one number and a character that looks something like a recipe or a measurement. The numbers and characters on each puzzle indicate how many candies you need to have in the puzzle. The easiest puzzles are the ones with no numbers or characters on them. 2. The theme song: The game has a relaxing tune in the background that sometimes changes to get more lively. However, it's still relaxing and gets the gamer into a calmer mood. 3. Story mode: Start by going to the route to "bonbon quest" and proceed to the puzzle of "Sajin". Once you complete it, you will get access to the story mode. - You can then choose which difficulty you want to go to next. - You will then be able to go to the "bonbon quest mode" that will take you on a journey of a lifetime! 4. "bonbon quest mode": Main menu: 1. "multi cuisine" mode: You will start in "dessert" and you can go to 2 of the next 3 types of food: a. pancakes b. cookies c. cakes 2. "pastry" mode: You will start in "pastries" and you can go to the next 3 types of food: a. chocolate b. jams & jellies c. cookies d. pastries 3. "sweets" mode:

Anderson Out for Season 2011/2012 with Leg Injury I'm sad to bring the news that one of our stars, Cally Anderson, will not return to Skate Canada this year. I first met Cally in the summer of 2010, when she visited Illinois for U.S. teams training camp. We were pretty excited about going into fall when skating started up again. On a Wednesday night in November, while the rest of our team were on dinner, Cally was having a bike ride to keep training on her injured foot. As she was biking through the snow, a boy riding down the road ran into her. She tried to fell and got thrown into the air. She scraped and shattered her left foot. She had a painful night of recovery in La Clinique Spa on the Place Dufresne in Perm, Illinois and then tried to train out of the gate. (Her father, Gary, however, had kept her at La Clinique until she recovered enough to be ready for the Calgary nationals the next week.) You might be asking yourself, "Why is she skating and training now? Isn't she still injured?" Yes she is, but she had too much invested in the one thing that she'd been training for — the 2010-11 season. She worked part time at the same skate store in California as they'd trained for three seasons (her 2010 Canadian title was their first title ever). When that store was closed down, and they lost their family we all lost a great skater in a whole lot of positive ways. She has a broken bone in her foot, a very complex cyst, an out-of-place fibrous bone, and a torn ligament. It's not her "normal" foot and the last 2-3 years have been difficult. But she is healthy now so she will be training and skating again soon, but only in the 2011-12 season. It's tough but I know she really wants to come back. Right now, she is struggling to skate in and get work done in her "normal" shoe. It's taken her about 8 months to fully heal. However, she hasn't stopped skating hard for the first 2-3 weeks she was in the clinic. I wanted to say thank-you to one of our fonder fans, Florian, who has been a great advocate and
