This is the first time the technology has been used in a FIFA title. The inclusion of the technology in this year's title will have a significant impact on gameplay. Working with a select group of leading motion capture specialists, FIFA Productions introduced the new technology to more than 180 Elite Developers. The studio also ran a number of play-testing sessions during which the various gameplay elements, including dribbling, passing and shooting could be simulated with professional player movements. The new gameplay features are the result of the extensive play-testing sessions, and were prototyped using virtual play-testing technology. As well as playing to the limitations of FIFA 22's gameplay, we worked very closely with our motion capture specialists on a number of dimensions – including the quantity, quality and authenticity of the data sets needed to deliver high-quality gameplay on a variety of platforms. FIFA 22's revolutionary game engine is built on the Titan platform. We wanted to introduce innovations on this platform that would not only look great but also be of great benefit to all the teams, players and fans who would be enjoying the game. We also want to provide for new and interesting gameplay experiences that would not have been possible without the technology. We used the word innovative on a couple of occasions when discussing the key features of FIFA 22, but first we'd like to clarify that we're using the term in a much wider sense than simply adapting a new feature to a new game. Like the name "FIFA," the design and development of FIFA 22 has been completely reworked from the ground up. The following are the innovations that developed in FIFA 22: FIFA 22 has been designed to run on the next-generation consoles and current-generation platforms. It will also feature authentic-looking player faces, animations, and general aesthetics. Another aspect of FIFA 22 that will introduce significant changes to the way we have been delivering player attributes since the launch of FIFA 17 is the presentation of these attributes. We're introducing four new attributes, which will each be represented by a new icon. The attributes to be introduced are: Dynamic Defending Dynamic Attacking Dynamic Maneuvering Attacking Flexibility These attributes are indicators that, when presented on the pitch, will highlight the most important aspects of your game play. Dynamic Defending will
