The article entitled "Antifreeze protein exhibits neuroprotective effects on the central nervous system during focal cerebral ischemia" by Dong et al., has been withdrawn at the request of the authors as the imaging data in Figs. 3 and 4 are incorrect. The correct Fig. 3 and Fig. 4 are shown in this erratum. The authors also request the correction of Figs. 5,6 and the omission of parts of Figs. 2 and 3 in the published article.Q: Getting error "SyntaxError: Expected identifier, got '()'" when trying to split on two spaces I'm trying to make a function to compare prices of 2 different stores. It calculates the difference between them and prints in the console whatever the user inputs. For some reason the function fails when running after taking the user's inputs. I get an error message saying "SyntaxError: Expected identifier, got '()'" for the line price = round(price / 10) it seems to be this line. I'm not sure why this is happening and I can't find the error in my code. So far I have this: print("Hello and welcome to the store price comparator!") def main(): try: while True: print("""How much do you want to save on the food items in store
