Structural Engineering - June 22nd Now that I've been a full-time practicing Engineer and

Structural Designer for the past year, what comes up frequently in discussion with clients is how I'm able to design a building while managing to structure it in a way that maximizes the effectiveness of a space. To provide a concrete example, consider a simple interior space consisting of a meeting room, three offices, a space for personal development, and a space for planning and program development, with no mechanical services, ventilation, or light fixtures. The space
