update: i downloaded and installed the chrome os version of chrome this morning. i've been using it for a few hours and it's been very stable and fast. i've also tested it on my windows machine and it's been flawless as well. i definitely recommend that you try chrome if you haven't already. you can also install the extension into chrome directly from the chrome web store by clicking the button labeled "add to chrome" at the bottom of this dialog. if you want to install it directly from the extension's github page, click on the "download" link for the version of google chrome you wish to install. you will see a dialog like this: this checks your download against google's blacklist of malicious sites. if the site is listed, it means google has verified it as safe, and the malware checker will warn you about it. if the site is listed as "malicious," google has not yet verified it, and the malware checker will warn you about it. if the site is listed as "malware," google has confirmed it as malicious, and the malware checker will warn you about it. for chrome on android, in certain countries, chrome may download the content of the new tab page suggestions from google, for use while offline. chrome sends to google a cookieless request with the url for each suggestion, along with chromes user agent string, in order to render the content. you can remove downloaded content by clearing chromes cache data, or by opening the downloads menu and selecting individual pages to delete. you can disable this feature by disabling download articles for you on wi-fi in chromes downloads settings.
