which tools are essential? the most important? it depends on you, your budget, and your personal preference. start by examining your kitchen and determining whether the tools you want to add should go on the same side of the bar as your fridge and oven. to determine your needs, we recommend using the kitchencraft cocktail kit design guide. it will help you figure out what type of bar you need and what tools you need to make cocktails. if you already have a set of equipment, see if the manufacturer sells an attachment. for instance, we love the oxo measuring cup because it works well as an ice scoop and a strainer. in addition to the tools, the guide also describes the ideal space for each tool, how to set up your space to make cocktails, and how to choose different types of barware. the idea is to have everything you need to make cocktails, but you may not need the entire collection. at the end of the day, you'll be mixing drinks, and some of the tools won't be used as often as others. you can also buy in-season produce at farmers markets and bodegas, so you won't need to spend as much money on disposable implements. the boston shaker isn't only the king of mixing drinks, it also makes an ideal bar tool. the reason for this is that its simple design makes it ideal for mixing and shaking most any cocktail. the boston shaker is simple to use and easy to clean, so you can relax and enjoy the fruits of your labor. to top it off, the boston shaker is also a good way to introduce younger drinkers to mixing drinks, since a basic recipe can be served in a boston shaker rather than a martini shaker.

Bartenders have a variety of tools that help them perfect their craft and make the drinks they're famous for. Without the right tools, bartenders and mixologists cannot properly measure ingredients or measure in the right proportions to make a great cocktail. In some cases, you will find a one-of-a-kind specialty tool that fits a specific function, such as a wine spritz bottle for adding flavor, but other times you can get a tool for any job at the local home improvement center. When choosing the tools you need, you want to think about what you need it for and what you're likely to use the tool for most often. For example, if you are most likely to use a jigger when making simple cocktails, then you might want to spend more on a high-quality jigger, but if you're more likely to want to do a lot of complicated drinks, then you might want to invest in a bunch of simple tools. Here are a few examples of the tools some bartenders and mixologists use. To make a nice drink, you have to mix the ingredients together in a proper ratio and often use an ice-filled shaker to evenly combine the ingredients. The shaker is the most important tool. Although many people will have a full set of cocktail tools, we found a few favorites. Our first-ever tool kit favorite is the Arbors Cocktail Shaker, an all-metal elegant cup with a brushed-metal finish that resists fingerprints, rust, and corrosion. The shaker comes in a variety of sizes to fit the needs of cocktail enthusiasts on a budget, and it works well for baking as well. 5ec8ef588b
