[[logging.external_loggers]] [id="external-loggers-about"]

== External Loggers External loggers can be used to provide detailed information about the lifecycle of an instance that is not otherwise available via Logging.

External loggers support customized behavior depending on the lifecycle and lifecycle transitions of the instance, and they are configured in the `external.loggers` section of the `internal.` cloud-provider` .[[logging.external_loggers.internal]] [TIP] =====

Note:* This configuration requires that the Internal Dependency is enabled. ===== [NOTE] ===== The following example configuration provides an external logger named `my-log-domain` for the instance with the `my-log-name` label. ===== [source,yaml] ---- externalLoggers: - name: my-log-domain label: my-log-

```

name ---- As a result, the following will be logged: ---- my-log-domain/my-log-name.go:10 ---- [TIP] ===== The following example configures an external logger only for the instances in a lifecycle state of `Running`. The external logger is named `my-log-domain` and is configured for the instance with the `my-log-name` label. =====

[source,yaml] ---- externalLoggers: - name: my-log-domain

label: my-log-name filter: lifecycleState=Running ---- The following will be logged: [source,yaml] ---- my-log-domain/my-log-name.go:8 ---- A Lifecycle Transition Type of `Start` will add an event to the log. A Lifecycle Transition Type of `Active` will do nothing. A Lifecycle Transition Type of `Error` will add an error event to
