Yarrow's Grammy-winning and Oscar-nominated songwriting is the foundation of the album, but its big star is its super producer and multi-instrumentalist, Jack Antonoff. Yarrow tells Forbes: "Jack worked on the whole record, even the vocals. He's an incredibly brilliant guitarist and so good at engineering everything that I've never had a producer like him." Yarrow writes, and Antonoff engineers. They've worked together since 2009, when they worked together for the albums "Greatest Hits," "Songs Of Triumphant Love," and "The Great Journey." The result was a long, harmonious and rewarding collaboration that started a move into vinyl's mainstream. The song, which is a power ballad, is an ode to Yarrow's new girlfriend. Yarrow writes for his and Antonoff's sons, as well as his wife, Deborah. "I've gotten to play with her on some great projects," he says. "I've always been very lucky to have a wife and family who let me keep up and do what I do."Q: How to construct discrete logarithm based private key given the public key? I'm trying to implement discrete logarithm based private key generation for elliptic curves. I've done the public key generation which works quite well. However, I'm currently stuck at constructing the discrete logarithm based private key. How would I go about doing that? A: The general formula for a p-element generator group and discrete logarithm (see, e.g., is $a
